Lions Want Pool

The Belle Glade Lions Club asked the Belle Glade City Commission Monday night to begin negotiations to sell the municipal pool back to the Lions.

Lion President Bert Ward presented the proposed resolution to the commission and said the Lions, to put it simply, want to exercise its option to buy back the 99 year lease the city signed in 1957.

The purchase would be made for an amount determined as the fair market value by a panel of three appraisers, one chosen by the Lions, one by the city and the third chosen by the first two appraisers.

City Attorney John Baker said the Lions apparently have the legal right to purchase the lease, "anytime from year one to year 98."

Ward said one of the reasons the Lions want to purchase the pool is because the pool has fallen into a state of disrepair and is unusable.

The city has had two studies made to determine how much repairs would cost and estimates have run from $33,000 to $50,000.

The Lions argued also the city earned approximately $8,800 from the pool in the period 1969-72 while the expenditures for upkeep ran to $36,500.

The city commission had previously set up a workshop for June 17 to discuss repairs of the pool and, on commission-er John Grady's motion, the city decided to accept the Lions' resolution subject to further discussion at the workshop.

An earlier motion by Commissioner William Grear to table the resolution until the commissioners have time to discuss it died for lack of a second.

Grear said he was against the city giving up any recreational facility, particularly the pool because it provides good recreation to the city population as a whole. Grear voted no on Grady's motion to accept the resolution pending discussion.

Following the meeting, Grear said he had spent most of the afternoon persuading a group of black Belle Glade residents not to demonstrate at the commission meeting because of the pool.

"They were going to come down here," he said, "with signs calling the commissioners 'niggers' if they accepted the resolution. It was all I could do to persuade them not to make that kind of demonstration."

Grear said many of the blacks in the city fear the pool will become a facility available only to the city's whites if it reverts to the Lions.

During the meeting, Grear accused the other commissioners of not taking positive action to repair the pool and said he had paid an engineer out of his own pocket to make an independent estimate.

He said the engineer told him the pool could be tunnelled under and the drainage leak repaired for as little as $7,000.

Grear suggested the estimate received earlier by the city may have been padded.

Before making his motion, Grady asked Ward what the land and ward said no definite plans had been made yet. But he said the club had considered using the building for storage space or possibly converting it to a meeting house for the Lions.

Grear said Wednesday morning he had been approached only that morning by city residents objecting to the reversion of the pool to the Lions.

He said there is a definitely organized resistance to the idea growing among black residents of the town.

But Two Sneak Under the Deadline

Belle Glade City Commissioners decided Monday to refuse to approve any more temporary permits to park mobile homes on non-conforming property, but not before granting two final requests.

The commissioners made the decision on the grounds each mobile home added to the city's sewage system decreases the number of homes to be added when and if the sewage connection moratorium is lifted.

City Commissioner William Grear moved the commission, "until any further issuing of trailer permits until we get a temporary operating permit from the state Department of Pollution Control."

After it was seconded, the commission performed a parliamentary juggling act to allow permits to be issued to Mrs. Bernestine Nelson and Mrs. Sylvia Redwood, who said they had been attempting to get approval for approximately six weeks.

Grady moved to table Grear's motion and then moved the two women be issued trailer permits before going back to lift Grear's motion from the table.

The commission voted 4-1-0 curtail any approvals in the foreseeable future, with Commissioner Ralph Kirk dissenting on the grounds others would have legitimate requests to put trailers on non-conforming lots.

The temporary operating permit for the city sewage treatment plant was also discussed earlier in the meeting when Grady said he was not going to vote, "one more dollar after tonight" to be spent on the plant until the department of pollution control approves the plans.

This is costing the city money and it's reducing confidence in the city government by the citizens who don't realize what the city has been doing and what it's been faced with.

"I'm getting sick of it," he said, and added that the pollution control people are supposed to be experts and should be able to tell if a plan will accomplish what they want or not.

He said he couldn't vote any more money on modifying the city sewage plant at the suggestion of the state agency with only the promise the modification might work.

He said he felt the city commission might be able to handle the problem this way if enough city residents complain to Gov. Reubin Askew and other state agencies involved.

This only the promise the modification might work.

When local builder Simon P. Mosely of 1309 S.W. Ave. E asked Mallery if the installation of the pumps would mean he could begin building homes to be connected to the city's sewage system, Mallery said he hoped so, but he was unsure.

Commissioner William Grear said he would go along with Grady's suggestion of getting tough with the Department of Pollution Control, but felt the commission should wait until a temporary operating permit is granted.

"You're going to get the short end of the stick," he said, "if you try to fight them before we get the permit, because they've got the long end of the stick right now."

"If you'll wait until we get the permit though," he told Grady, "I'll fight with you."

"I wish," he said, when Mrs. Nelson and Mrs. Redwood were telling the commission why they needed permits to park trailers on a non-conforming lot. "They (the Department of Pollution Control) had to be the ones to listen to this type of testimony and tell them why they can't have the permits."

Belle Glade Flood Prone HUD Rules

The city hasn't received official notice about it yet, but Belle Glade is on a list which could mean another stop to construction of residences.

According to a news release received last week, Belle Glade has been listed by the Federal Insurance Administration as a flood prone community which hasn't yet qualified for federal flood insurance.

According to the Flood Disaster Protection Act, passed in December 1973, this means the city must qualify for the program or no federal or federally-related financial assistance will be available.

The act gives a community identified as flood prone until July 1, 1975, to qualify for the program. No homeowner after that date can apply for FIA or other federal loans.

It would also affect every loan for housing made by any bank in Belle Glade and unless the city commission qualifies the city for the flood loans, construction could come to a stop.

Belle Glade City Manager William Mallory III said the city hasn't been notified by HUD the city has been declared a flood-prone area.

Donald R. McIntosh of Travelers Insurance Companies, which handles the flood insurance for the state of Florida, Belle Glade still wasn't listed as flood prone as of April 25.

McIntosh addressed a regional group of loan officers here on that date on flood insurance and said he was supposed to have the latest lists of cities declared flood prone and the latest list of cities in the state which have qualified to buy the insurance.

The list of flood prone areas accompanying the news release distributed by HUD's Federal Insurance Administration was dated March 31 and a HUD official in Atlanta said the city has been considered flood prone since September 1973.

Rick Mason, a flood insurance specialist with the Federal Insurance Administration in Atlanta, said the administration placed Belle Glade on the list after receiving technical data from the U.S. Soil Conservation Service.

"The methods used were based on historical data," Mason said. "Within the next two or three months, maps and lists will be issued to the cities on the list, identifying the areas which are flood-prone."

Also appearing on the list are S. uth Bay and Pahokee. Other cities around the lake considered flood prone are Clewiston, Moore Haven, Okeechobee and LaBelle. Only Clewiston is participating in the insurance program.

Congress Expecting No New Sugar Act

An agricultural office said in U.S. Sen. Lawton Chiles' office said the initial reaction in Congress to the House's killing of the Sugar Act is that there will be an increase in prices and the climate for a revised Act will become more favorable.

Margaret Marachuk said the Senate or the House may then reintroduce legislation on the act.

"There is some feeling," she said, "that the USDA can still enforce some of the provisions of the act, such as import quotas, even after the Act dies on Dec. 31."

Ms. Marachuk said that in any rate there is some legal maneuvering going on at the time to revise the act.

"Sen. Chiles," she said, "isn't one of the committee members directly involved in the Sugar Act, but of course he's interested in any legislation which affects Florida and this vitally affects Florida."

U.S. Sen. Ed Gurney's office reported no efforts in the Senate to revive the issue after it was killed in the House. Rep. Paul Rogers' office reported the same attitude in the House.

"The Florida Sugar Cane League board of directors held a meeting on the matter Monday and the general feeling which came out of the room was to 'sit tight and see what happens.'"

The action by the House, League Vice President and General Manager Nelson Fairbanks said Friday, "could have far-reaching repercussions not only against the American consumer, but also against the sugar workers and the sugar farmers."

The defeat of the Sugar Act, he said, "could possibly result in the sugar farmer being unable to pay the premium wages to sugar workers, as they are now required to do under the Sugar Act."

The Secretary of Agriculture has normally set minimum wage rates that were considerably higher than minimum rates afforded other agricultural workers."

Currently, the minimum pay rate under the Act is $2.15 per hour for cane cutters and industry officials report the average earnings, on a piece rate basis, were more than $2.60 an hour during the 1973-74 season.

Officials from Washington have recommended for a minimum wage increase of $2.35, by the industry, to $1.30 by the workers.

Officials of the U.S. Department of Labor suggested a minimum wage of $2.25 per hour with increases set to equal $3.30 per hour average being earned by agricultural workers around the state being paid on a piece rate basis.

In the meantime, United Farm Workers Union organizers said during a meeting in Pahokee Tuesday night the U.S. Department of Labor should enforce minimum wages by requiring the industry growers to immediately pay a minimum what the average piece rate agricultural worker now gets paid.

Keep Cool

When the Belle Glade Lions Club decided to exercise its option to buy back the lease for the land containing the municipal swimming pool, the members may not have realized the possibilities.

Everything was quiet enough at the city commission meeting Monday night when they asked the city to sell its rights to the pool and the land it's on. But some ugly rumblings concerning the possible transaction have been heard.

There seems to be little doubt about the Lions' legal right to buy the lease held by the city, and buy the buildings and the pool constructed by the city since the lease was signed in 1957.

And no one can argue with the idea the city has done precious little to get the pool back into operation since it was closed last spring because of a leak in the drainage system.

It could be expensive to have the pool repaired. Estimates have run as high as $60,000 but City Commissioner William Grear said he has received one estimate for as low as $7,000 for tunneling under the pool and repairing it from underneath.

Depending on the use made of it, it could be a good thing for the community if the Lions do reclaim the pool, but there is already a certain amount of opposition forming.

Grear told the Herald after Monday night's meeting the reason for the opposition is that black residents of the city feel the pool would be closed to blacks if it reverts to the Lions Club.

Checking with the Lions, we were told the Lions realize this won't work anymore and that, should they get the pool and make it operable again, it will almost certainly be open to the public as a whole.

But the fact remains there was a group of blacks who were ready Monday to picket the City Commission meeting that night and it took some persuasion from Grear to hold off the demonstration. Grear said that as late as Wednesday morning he was still getting comments from black residents of Belle Glade who were opposed to the move.

In a case like this, it may not matter what the Lions have in mind for the pool if the blacks believe it will be turned into an all white facility.

If they firmly believe this, they'll act accordingly and those actions could be disastrous to the city.

We're naturally hesitant to bring up the ugly head of racial conflict, and the possibility of it, again. But playing the part of an ostrich with its head in the sand never solved a problem.

The commission will be meeting in a work session Monday night to discuss the action and as distasteful as it is, race relations should be considered before any move is made.

It would be a disservice to the community to open a racially segregated pool, especially when it's directly across the street from Glades Central with its predominantly black student body.

But if the Lions don't have this in mind, it would seem to be a good idea for them to spare no effort to get the point across.

A Federal Flood

Congratulations, Belle Glade.

You're going to be given a chance to help pay off the money spent by the federal government to help rebuild the Ohio Valley and Pennsylvania after floods there.

Whether you want to or not.

The city doesn't officially know it yet, but Belle Glade is now considered by the Department of Housing and Urban Development, in all its infinite wisdom as flood prone.

As a matter of fact, the city has been so considered by HUD's Federal Insurance Administration for nine months, but HUD is an apparent advocate of the old saw that what you don't know won't hurt you.

It's supposed to be federal policy that the first people to learn on a local level about a community's being declared flood prone is the community government itself.

In this case, the powers that be decided to work through a news release, a propaganda kit which encourages the press and private citizens to apply pressure on local government to get them to qualify the city for coverage.

"I know you will agree," William J. Greener Jr., the assistant to the secretary for public affairs, writes, "that an informed public is the best weapon we have to stimulate action by those local governments which have been reluctant to enroll in the program, possibly because up to this time they have not been made aware of the immediate and long range benefits it offers their citizenry."

On the other hand, it could be because no one from HUD has seen fit to let the local government know it governs a flood prone area and is eligible.

And if the community doesn't qualify? Why, no bank can make a loan to anyone wanting to build a house, or renovate a house, nor can that person get any kind of federal loan.

The community stagnates for lack of growth. It's that simple.

Belle Glade has already been having trouble with a state agency which has banned the construction of residential units until the city meets its demands on what must be done with the sewage system.

In order to qualify for the federal flood coverage, should the city fathers wish to do so, they would have to adopt land use regulations and zoning dictated by Washington, D.C.

And the federal government would have another foot in the door of local government.

But the most obvious thing about the insurance program is that it was originally offered in 1968 to communities around the nation but there weren't many buyers.

Now they're going to force the local communities to force homeowners to buy it, or at least they're going to try to.

And like one area banker put it in April, the whole thing is designed to bail the government out of a situation it got itself into during floods in the Ohio Valley.

Mark up another one for Uncle Sugar.

I was talking to a crusty old veteran of many years in the Glades the other day and he challenged me to write something he thought was highly controversial—but something I would not consider true.

Having a great deal of respect for the gentleman, I listened for a short period of time to his thoughts. I shocked him by saying I couldn't agree more.

And I couldn't.

His basic thesis was that Watergate was going to have a good effect on the United States. He contended that history would treat Watergate as a tonic this country greatly needed at the time it came along.

Crazy? You might say so off hand. But consider the long range effects of Watergate.

Yes, it has caused a constitutional crisis—whatever that might be. Yes, it has caused a lack of confidence in our national leadership which may wind up with the first successful impeachment in the history of our still young country.

But—it has caused the electorate to examine men for public office more closely than they have ever studied them before. Not a public official makes a move without fully explaining it to the people that make up the electorate.

Even people who have never bothered before about their representative form of government are starting to ask questions. Public officials are starting to reveal personal information about themselves relevant to their ability to serve the people, but which has been kept secret in the past.

This is the good side of Watergate. Indeed—history may treat it kindly. It has ushered in a new era of honesty in government. It is up to the electorate not to let this era of truth become just a fad, which like most fads just fade away.

Moving closer to home, the problem of recreation has reared its ugly head again in Belle Glade.

I say again—this became the subject of my column about the old days.

It causes at the beginning of every summer is not a nice one. Let's face it—pure and simple—there isn't much for a kid to do in Belle Glade even when school is in session, let alone when the long, hot summer months come along.

The Lions Club came before the Belle Glade City Commission Tuesday night to discuss the possibility of that club taking over the grounds where the municipal pool now stands.

The Lions are concerned and rightfully so, because this is the second summer in a row that the swimming pool has stood idle. The city appears to be more than just a little reticent to spring for the cash which it would cost to repair the pool.

The land used to belong to the Lions. The Lions donated the land to the city plus a substantial amount of money which topped the $17,000 figure to go toward the building of the pool.

The Lions also paid an extra $1,000 for a 99 year lease on the site which would allow them to take it back from the city under certain conditions if they wanted to.

This is where the real crux of the problem lies—if indeed there is to be a problem. As I understand it—if the Lions want the land back the city has to negotiate with them whether it wants to or not.

Under the provisions of the existing contract the Lions are allowed to exercise their option on the property for the arbitrated difference between the existing improvements and the amount they originally put into the property.

So basically, the city has no real choice if the Lions want to take back the site. And I can't help but wonder if it wouldn't be such a bad idea.

There is an old saying about half a loaf is better than none. And of course, this is not to deny the fact that the Lions just might give the entire community a whole to enjoy once again.

It's going to be a long, hot summer. Our children need some place to cool off.

him Saturday morning at a meeting. The meeting folded because there were only a few of the scout workers who showed up.

Out of an expected turnout of 15 or so people, the only scouts to make it were Charles, the Rev. J. Frank Ingram, Arthur King from Clewiston and District Executive Earl Hartman.

I used to think there weren't many people who remembered their mother washing clothes by boiling them in a cast iron kettle over an open fire but that was the type of talk going on...about about the old days.

Charles mentioned one of the reasons we might be having problems with kids today is that life is made too easy for them. That a lot of parents are too worried about making life easier for their kids than they had it.

He said one of the things kids need more of is responsibility, that they need to have a job that's up to them to handle.

He made his point with an anecdote about a boy at Glades Central who had been skipping school and owned up to the fact he had been skipping to work in one of the packing houses.

When Charles asked if he'd given any of the money he'd made to his mother, the boy told him, "No, she never asked for any."

As the dean said, though, how in the name of the Good Lord Harry was the boy's mother to ask if he woke up in the morning, got out of her bed, put on her clothes, planted his feet under her table and ate her food for breakfast and then told her he was going to school?

It's this kind of self-discipline. Charles seems to be trying to instill in the boys of Glades Central and it's this kind of discipline that not only builds a pride in one's self but creates an awareness of a person's responsibility to his community.

It's a pity he hasn't been able to get that message across to a few adults in the community. Maybe there would have been a few more people at that meeting.

Maybe there'd be a few more people, as a matter of fact, getting involved in a number of things in the community.

And maybe Belle Glade would be a better place to live.

Personality Quiz

HOW SYMPATHETIC ARE YOU?

People who lack sympathy for the feelings of others who help in a sorry state. They're always more pitiful when they compare their own poor lot with the lot of others. They expect sympathy from others, but they don't give it. Take this test to find out.

1. If a friend of yours (A) from his job, you should (B) Express your sorrow. (B) Say that it may be a change for the better. or (C) Tell him he was making more money than he deserved. anyway.

2. When a married couple you know decides to get a divorce, and you are a close friend of one of them. It is best to (A) Express the hope that your friend will find someone new. (B) Tell him or her that you're sorry and say nothing. or (C) Invite the person to a party as an attempt to help him forget?

3. When the parent of a close friend of yours suddenly dies, you should (A) Tell him how unexpected this was. (B) Tell him how much his parent will be missed. or (C) Send flowers to the funeral chapel or to the home of the bereaved?

4. If one of your friends has taken a driver's license test and he receives word in the mail that he failed it, you should (A) Tell him he should have waited a little longer before taking the test. (B) Explain to him that many people who turn out to be excellent drivers fail their first driving test. or (C) Urge him not to be so nervous?

5. If someone you know knows his wallet or has it stolen, it is best to (A) Tell him he should have been more careful. (B) Express the hope that someone will return the wallet. Telling him to be more careful will only aggravate his feelings. And offering to lend him some money is too selfless unless, of course, he brought up the subject himself.

ANSWERS: 1. (B) Say that it may result in a change for the better. Merely expressing your regrets probably won't make him feel much better. 2. (C) Invite the person to a party to help him or her forget. This is something constructive you can do to help your friend through a very trying time. 3. (C) Verbal sympathy is fine if delicately expressed, but flowers are the accepted and most effective way of showing sympathy with beauty. 4. (B) Tell him that many people who are eventually good drivers sometimes fail their first driver's test. Urging him not to be so nervous would be of little avail. 5. (B) Express the hope that someone will return the wallet. Telling him to be more careful will only aggravate his feelings. And offering to lend him some money is too selfless unless, of course, he brought up the subject himself.

Sub Food Should Compete

The Belle Glade Herald, Thursday, June 13, 1974-54.

Many new-fangled substitute foods are reaching the market in the form of meat-like breakfast links, patties resembling sausage and Canadian style bacon slices, as egg and butter substitutes and others.

Processing companies which make these textured vegetable protein products (TVP) boost them as having no animal fat and no cholesterol found in natural meat and their aim is at people who fear heart attacks.

Some comparisons have been made between the substitute breakfast products and the real thing by the National Livestock and Meat Board and the results are interesting.

Compared were real eggs and pork sausage and buttered toast with egg substitutes, TVP breakfast links and toast with margarine.

(The National Livestock and Meat Board says the breakfast comparison would have been more complete had it included real fruit juice versus a synthetic product.)

In the analysis of the test, it was found that the typical real breakfast had almost five grams more protein, over 200 milligrams more phosphorus and nearly an equal amount of fat. Substitutes compared well with the real thing in terms of

A and B vitamins. A major difference according to the comparisons between the real breakfast and the TVP products was that the substitutes have 242 milligrams more of sodium than the real thing, and doctors advise heart patients to cut down on their sodium intake or eliminate it altogether to control high blood pressure, which is a leading contributor to heart trouble. I think it is clear, based on these facts, that the natural real thing animal protein products can continue to have competitive advantages over the substitutes in terms of total health in bidding for the consumer's dollar. They can compete also in terms of cost and total value. That's the way it should be.

Softball season is finally here for all those players, men and women alike, who like to get out there on the field and have a good time and also have a little competition. (Of course the main thing I look for is to see who drops more balls than I do).

The Men's Show Pitch Softball League was to have started its games Tuesday night and it's interesting to see who will come out on top this year.

The Women's Softball League starts its games Monday night in Belle Glade with Glades Sugar competing against Royal's in the first game and Wallis playing opposite Haskley in the second game.

Three games will be played each week with all Monday night games in Belle Glade and Tuesday and Thursday night games at the Canal Point field.

For all you players and/or spectators who don't know where the field in Canal Point is, let me give you a few pointers. You can see the park from the highway but it isn't that easy to get to.

Unless you want to park on the side of the road, you might better backtrack a little bit and turn down one of the side streets on the right side. Drive down a little way until you come to a small intersection and then turn left and go straight down to the ball park.

Otherwise you'll probably be like I was and be driving around in circles trying to look for a side street that turns off the highway and goes directly to the field.

While I'm on the subject of softball (see how easily I can maneuver) a word ought to be put in for these poor boys who are stuck in between age groups in softball and baseball. Boys age 13-14 are eligible to play for the Pony League baseball teams and men 18 or older can play in the Men's Softball League.

Where does that leave the boys who are between these two ages? I know a few at least who have complained about the situation but it must not have occurred very many ears because surely there must be someone in Belle Glade who would be concerned enough about keeping some boys off the street by giving them something constructive to do, with a little competition to spice it up some.

But all these guys can do in the summer is go and watch the older ones play softball and hope that one day they will be able to get out there and play ball instead of having to sit on the sidelines all the time.

Tackle Testers End Tournament

The Lake Okechobee Tackle Testers wound up their second bass fishing tournament Saturday with the winning boat hauling in 19 pounds, seven ounces.

Club public relations man Walter Parker said the tournament was won by the fishing team of Louis Hatton of Pahokee and Darrell Mathis of Belle Glade but he said they beat out the second place boat by only five ounces.

The total weight of bass caught of the second place boat was 19 pounds, two ounces, being pulled in by club member Joey Thompson and his guest, Keith Siles.

Parker said Hatton and Mathis were fishing off Bare Beach and used white rattler plugs and purple worms while the Thompson-Siles team were using Devil's Horses and purpleworms off Krammer Island.

Their largest bass was caught by Don Kelly, using a speed shad, who boated a seven pound, seven ounce bass. Parker said the tournament, beginning at 6 a.m. at Pahokee Harbor, included a total of 12 boats and 24 fishermen, made up in teams of one member and one guest.

"We were fishing most of the south portion of Lake Okechobee from Canal Point to Clewiston," Parker said, "and everyone brought in some bass. Several boats caught more than 16 pounds."

He said the membership of the new club is rapidly growing but said the club is encouraging new members from the western part of Palm Beach County.

"This isn't just for Pahokee fishermen," he said. "We have quite a few Belle Glade fishermen who are members too."

He said anyone interested in joining the club can contact him at 924-5061 after 5 p.m.

Summer Camp to Open

Words won't always describe the sheer pleasure to be found at the Everglades Youth Camp in Palm Beach County, but the flood of repeat applications arriving at camp headquarters, from campers who enjoyed a week or more of the outdoors in 1979, tell the real story of the camp and the Fish Commission camp program.

According to Lt. Bob Hickman, Camp Director, many current reservations are from the boys and girls who want to repeat their "adventures in exploring Florida's woods and waters" when the doors of the nine weekly sessions open June 16.

Between fishing, canoeing, hiking, archery, hunter safety classes, and enjoying three excellent meals daily, the $14-a-week campers simply don't have a chance to become bored. First time campers are quickly absorbed into the excitement of seeing new aspects of Florida's great outdoors, meeting new friends, and learning new activities.

Another indication of the camp's enjoyment quickly appears as parents arriving to collect their campers are asked for another week or more at the camp.

Weekly fees are $45 per camper, with reservations and brochures available from the Everglades Youth Camp, 551 North Military Trail, West Palm Beach, Florida 33406.

200 Compete in Rodeo

Nearly 200 high school cowboys and cowgirls will compete in the Florida High School Rodeo Association 1979-80 Championships to be held at the Silver Spurs Stadium here June 14-16.

Belle Glade, Florida

Five contest events for girls, plus a queen contest, and six events for boys, will be seen at each of the three performances—8 p.m. Friday and Saturday nights, and 2:30 p.m. Sunday afternoon, according to Buddy Best, Folk City cattleman and president of the association.

Church services for contestants will be held Sunday morning, 10 a.m. in the Stadium, with the public invited.

The Silver Spurs Club is making the 12,000 covered seats available as a public service. Admission will be $2 per person, with income going to send Florida contestants to the national rodeo finals in Wisconsin in August, and to provide college scholarships to deserving contestants.

The High School rodeos have a different event structure from regular rodeos—a major difference being the number of events open to girls. Rodeo Cowboys Association governs the High School Rodeo rules and procedures. Events follow: Boys—Tiedown Calf Roping, Bareback Bronc Riding, Steer Wrestling, Bull Riding, Cutting Horse Contest, Saddle Bronc Riding.

Girls—Breakaway Roping, Cloverleaf Barrel Race, Pole Bending Race, Goat Tyng, Cutting Horse Contest, and the Queen Contest held once each year. Cutting will be the only event not held during the public shows. In addition, there is Daily Team Roping, with both Boys and Girls eligible for the teams.

For all events except the queen selection the youthful cowboys and cowgirls have earned qualifying points by competing at local rodeos throughout Florida. As many as 15 contestants can qualify for the championships rodeo in each of the events.

Points earned at local events in Bunnell, Davis, Palatka, Deer Park, Indianola, Fort Orange, Callahan, Dade City, Lake Placid, and Ocala determined eligibility for the finals.

204 Seniors Leave Glades Central

Graduation Day-A Day For Rejoicing, Tears

It was a day for cheering, a day for grinning and a day for congratulations Friday when Glades Central High School graduated 204 seniors of the 1974 class.

The main speakers were Class President Ibrahim Alava, Class Valedictorian Joan Dunster and Class Salutatorian Candy Ford. West Area Superintendent of Instruction James Maynor presided diplomatically in the ceremony as the Raider band played several pieces of music.

As Maynor handed out the sashes, a crowd of family members and friends gathered around the platform to photograph the seniors they were interested in.

Following the handing out of the diplomas, the graduates turned their tassels and joined raised hands in one last cheer.

New Librarian Here

The new librarian at the Belle Glade Municipal Library is beginning her employment.

MRS. ANN LALIOLES is new librarian here.

locally just in time to kick off the library's annual summer reading program.

Mrs. Elizabeth Brandon Lalioles said she is tiling the program "Follow the Reader" this summer and said it will start at 2 p.m. June 18 with an appearance by the Rev. Randall Parsons and his puppet, J.J.

Mrs. Brandon, who said she likes to be called Ann, is a native of Camden, N.J., and came to the local library after working as a technical services librarian and assistant professor at Palm Beach Atlantic College in West Palm Beach.

Before her position at Palm Beach Atlantic, Mrs. Lalioles was a graduate teaching fellow at East Carolina University in Greenville, N.C., in the Department of Library Science, where she earned her master's degree in library science.

She is a member of the American Library Association, the Florida Library Association and a charter member of Library Outreach Caucus formed in May.

Mrs. Lalioles said she is still living in West Palm Beach but is looking for a place in the Glades.

Cans For Coins

Citizens of the Belle Glade area received $1,113.00 from Reynolds Metals Co.'s aluminum recycling program last month.

Reynolds mobile recycling unit collected 11,130 pounds of aluminum, the equivalent of 225,990 all-aluminum cans from the area.

During June, the public will be receiving 15 cents per pound for all-aluminum cans on Thursdays, June 6, 13, 20 and 27 from 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. at the City Park, 500 W. Canal St.

The warm summer weather is just beginning, and with it comes an increase in the consumption of cool beverages in aluminum cans, according to Paul Hayden, Reynolds' regional recycling manager.

Turnbull Joins Bank

John W. Turnbull has joined the Florida First National Bank at Belle Glade as president of the organization following the resignation of former President Frederic Rogers.

A veteran banker of 18 years, Turnbull has resided in Palm Beach County for the past 14 years. He came to Florida First from Fidelity National Bank in Pompano Beach, where he was also president.

"I've lived in West Palm Beach for 14 years," Turnbull said, "but this is the first time I've ever worked in a small rural town like Belle Glade."

"I really believe I'm going to like it here," he said. "It's nothing like it is on the coast. West Palm Beach is growing all the time and Fort Lauderdale is becoming another Miami."

"Here," he said, "people wave at you on the street whether you're walking or driving. On the coast, most people won't even look up from the sidewalk."

Turnbull said his family is living on the coast and he intends to move to Belle Glade in the near future. Turnbull attended Michigan State University and later attended the School of Banking of the South at Louisiana State University in Baton Rouge, La. He served in the U.S. Army in Germany and has been active in the YMCA, the Chamber of Commerce, is a past president of the Lions Club and counts golf and fishing as two of his hobbies.

Bamford Retires From Center

The faculty of the West Area Exceptional Child Education Center at Gove Elementary School gathered Monday for a double retirement ceremony.

Retiring were Mrs. Selma Bamford, director of the center and Child Education Coordinator Marjorie Crick.

Mrs. Bamford was celebrating the end of a 21-year teaching career and Mrs. Crick was ending 39 years of work as a teacher and educational administrator.

The center faculty presented Mrs. Bamford with a plaque on her retirement and Mrs. Crick and county School Superintendent Dr. Joseph Carroll signed a certificate attesting to Mrs. Bamford's years of service.

Mrs. Bamford said she has spent a total of 11 years in Exceptional Child Education, winding it up with the center in the Glades.

Children of the center showed their appreciation for

Mrs. Crick by making a sewing basket and a shoe-shine kit for her and presenting her with several potted plants.

Mrs. Crick spent a total of 32 of her 39 years in Exceptional Child Education, starting the program in Palm Beach County with a single teacher and seven students assigned to her.

Office to Close

Warren H. Kramer, Palm Beach County Tax Collector, advises area residents that all branch auto license agencies will be taking inventory Friday, June 13 and sale of licenses will be suspended on that day. Sales will resume on Monday, July 1.

All other services provided by the agencies will remain available, however, and will not be affected by the taking of inventory.

THE LAGADOS 13-MEMBER BRAZILIAN SINGING GROUP PERFORMS
...this week at Belle Glade Alliance Church at 425 East Canal Street North.

Singing Group to Appear

Thirteen singing Brazilians touring N. America will appear at the Belle Glade Alliance Church, 425 E. Canal Street N., June 16, at the 11 a.m. service.

The group, conceived and directed by OMS International missionary Mike Murphy, has captivated audiences across Brazil since their first performance in 1972. Wherever they appear at high schools, clubs, churches, civic gatherings, and on radio and TV, transformed lives have resulted.

Their concerts uniquely combining taped backgrounds slide projections, colored light, and striking costumes portray the culture and spiritual challenge of their vast country. To hear them is to also catch the excitement of lives "turned on" for Christ.

After hearing The Ligados in Brazil, American businessmen affiliated with Men for Missions International determined to bring them to the States and Canada. And so they appear under the sponsorship of MFMI, the laymen's voice of OMS International.

OMS International is an evangelical interdenominational faith mission, founded in 1901 by Charles Cowman and E.A. Kilbourne. Flourishing under God's blessing, a strong, indigenous national church was founded in Japan (1901). In 1907 the work spread to Korea where OMS now has its largest field. Successively the fields of China (1926), India (1941), South America (Columbus, 1943), Greece (1947), Taiwan (1950), Hong Kong (1954), Haiti (1958), Indonesia (1971), and Spain (1972) have been added.

From the inception of OMS, a three-fold policy has been observed: 1) the house-to-house distribution of the Scriptures and every creature evangelism, 2) the training of a national ministry, and 3) the establishment of a self-supporting, self-governing, self-propagating national church. We cordially invite you to attend this special event extolling the Lord Jesus Christ, demonstrating the necessity of being born again (spiritually) quickened to the things of the Lord.

Services Held

Funeral services for the late Mrs. Ollie Wilson were held Monday at St. James A.M.E. Church with the Rev. Richard Thigpen, pastor, presiding. Mrs. Wilson was born in 1882 in Patterson, Miss. Survivors include a daughter, Mrs. Claudia Mae Hanna and one son, Cornelius Wilson, both of Pahokee; one sister, Mrs.

Ada Davis of Doddsville, Miss.; seven grandchildren; 27 great-grandchildren; nine great-great-grandchildren; two daughters-in-law Mrs. Lovella Wilson of Immokalee and Mrs. Malissia Wilson of Port Lauderdale and many other relatives and friends. Burial was in Port Mayaca Cemetery at Port Mayaca. Taylor Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Thought for the Day

READ ISAIAH 43:1-21

Isaiah 1:22-27

Be doers of the word, and not hearers only. [James 1:22]

A popular television star made an eloquent New Year's prayer with a plea to God to "do His thing" to end the wrongs of the world. This request disturbed me. Was not that exactly what happened on the first Christmas—and continues to happen?

Can we no longer see evidence that God is alive here in this world? It is difficult to see God at work in Appalachia in a mission that lends school books to the children and puts shoes on their feet so they can attend school?

Can we not see God active in inner city and suburban areas as committed persons patiently labor among alcoholics and drug addicts? Is God not acting in a church in Cleveland whose mission is to the residents of the Hough area through tutoring, rat extermination, legal aid, recreation, and Christian training for youth — plus a shower, clean clothes, and a free lunch?

PRAYER: O God, we know You are not just "up there" unaware and uncaring of what's going on. Use us as You continue to move in love and compassion in this world. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

In doing His thing, God looks to us to help implement it.

THE TRUTH THAT HEALS
Broadcast this Sunday over station WSWN.

[A Christian Science Radio Series]

The Parson Pontificates

Jesus taught us to pray, "Forgive us our trespasses as we forgive those who trespass against us." What an awesome prayer! What a difference it would make in our society if every church member would sincerely and seriously pray it. How many heartaches would be healed, how many families reunited, how many physical healings would be accomplished if people would forgive as they wish to be forgiven? General Belloc once in anger told John Wesley, "I never forgive!" "Then, sir," replied Mr. Wesley, "I hope you never sin." Since we are praying for God to forgive us as we forgive others, are we going to hear Him say on the Judgment Day, "I forgive you, but I'll never forget what you did?" A grudge remembered means a wrong unforgiven, my friends. And if God can't forgive us, it is our own fault. [See Isaiah 43:25]

SEEDS FROM THE SOWER
By Michael A. Guido, Pastor, Georgia

A friend visited a shepherd in the Holy Land. He observed that every morning he carried food to the sheepfold. "Is one of your flock sick?" he asked. "Yes," answered the shepherd. "I have a sheep with a broken leg." "How did this happen?" he questioned. "Was it struck by a stone or bitten by a dog?" "No," replied the shepherd. "I broke it." "Why?" cried the visitor. "I thought you loved your sheep." "I do," he answered. "That is why I broke it." "This sheep was wayward. It would always go astray, and in going astray it led others astray. Something had to be done to preserve the life of this sheep and to prevent it from leading others astray. I broke its leg and rest it to teach it obedience. Now it eats out of my hand. It stays by my side. It is obedient." There was another shepherd who used to wander off until he was punished. He confessed in Psalm 119:57, "Before I was afflicted I went astray; but now have I kept Thy Word." It is better to obey than stray!

Imagine a World without Belief!

It wouldn't be the world that you know or a world that you would want to live in.

Without belief in God, it would be a bleak, cold planet devoid of spiritual guidance and comfort. No Christmas, no Easter, no resurrection, no everlasting life.

Without belief in America and our constitution, the world would regress to strange ideologies. Power-hungry war-lords and dictators would take over to battle each other.

Without belief in law and order, sub-human cultures would prey on hapless herds of their fellow men.

Without belief in people, our whole fraternal and economic structure would fall of its own weight. No credit, no business, no fertile farms, no productive factories, no transportation, no commerce.

Our beautiful cities and towns would cease to exist. No incentive for progress and growth. Neighbors would vie with each other for vanishing supplies.

Without belief, the whole world we know would wither and die and fade away.

Fortunately, we can only imagine this lost world of disbelief.

Our world is filled with belief. Everything we have today and hope for tomorrow is based on belief. Belief in God, belief in America, belief in people, belief in personal integrity and dignity.

You can dispel disbelief and strengthen your own belief at the fount of faith where you worship this week.

"Eternal vigilance is the Price of Liberty"

★★★★ Wendell Phillips 1852 ★★★★★

"We, the People of the United States, in order to form a more perfect Union, establish Justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America."

This short paragraph—the Preamble of the Constitution for the United States of America—states in one sentence the intentions of the men who wrote it. Not many would find themselves in disagreement with the proposed objectives, but from the beginning there has been disagreement over the line which would limit the exercise of the rights of our own personal desires, ambitions and material gain.

In order to be able to properly evaluate here, either these men in force or those being proposed, we need to take a more important point of view and try to think more in terms of "We, the people of the UNITED STATES."

Rogers to Speak at Ceremony

U.S. Congressman Paul Rogers will be the main speaker at 10 a.m. July 13 at the formal dedication of the giant W. Turner Wallis Pumping Station at 20 Mile Bend.

Central and Southern Florida Flood Control District Executive Director G.E. Dull Jr. said Rogers is a long-time friend of Wallis and will honor him for more than 50 years of service, "in furthering the cause of conservation and water management in South Florida."

Wallis was a lifelong resident of Kissimmee, where he died two years ago, and was head of the old Everglades Drainage District, the predecessor of the FCD, which he helped get off the ground in its formative years.

A plaque renaming the pumping station in his honor will be unveiled at the ceremony next month, a part of the 25th anniversary of the FCD.

The pumping station was built in 1955 and it is the largest low level pumping station in the world with a pumping capacity of 360,000 gallons of water per minute.

The station's six pumps are designed to drain three quarters of an inch of water every 24 hours from the 230 square miles served by the West Palm Beach Canal.

The station is being renamed for Wallis as the result of action taken in the U.S. Congress.

Following the dedication ceremony, the FCD will host a barbeque on the grounds.

The Sting

AGRICULTURE COMMISSIONER Doyle Conner (L), releases tiny wasps (Pediobius foveolatus) which attack the Mexican bean beetle, a destructive defoliator of soybeans and other beans. Assisting is Dr. Gerald Greene (C), Entomologist and Director of the North Florida Agricultural Experiment Station at Quincy and Dr. Reese Sailer, Entomologist also with the station. The wasp was developed by the Florida Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services biological control laboratory in Gainesville and will be under study by agricultural scientists following its release. Conner says development and release of this parasitic insect will further reduce the need for chemical control of the bean beetle which does upwards of $5 million annual damage to bean crops. The wasp release was made in bean fields at the Quincy Agricultural Experiment Station.

Plaque Dedicated to "Skip" Runck

In a brief ceremony Thursday morning in the Palm Beach Junior College Criminal Justice Complex, a plaque was dedicated to the memory of Meridith "Skip" Runck, by members of his class.

Runck, serving as a Riviera Beach policeman, was killed on duty earlier this year.

Mrs. Lee Leffingwell, currently attending Florida Atlantic University, and Howard Friess, of the North Palm Beach Police Department, represented members of Recruit Class 1.

This was the first class to take the Basic Standard Recruit Training Program offered at PBJC in July and August 1973.

In a note to Lawrence D. Tuttle, Chairman of the Law Enforcement Department, PBJC, Mrs. Leffingwell, secretary, as well as the only woman in the class, wrote: "The Number 1 Class of Palm Beach Junior College Police Academy, would like to present this memorial plaque to be hung in the permanent classroom of the academy, in fond remembrance of Officer Meridith "Skip" Runck, who was an outstanding member of this particular class.

His memory will never die in our collective hearts and minds, but we would like others who follow in our footsteps to also know of the esteem in which his fellow classmates held him."

New Manager

Glades General Hospital Administrator Ben Clarke recently announced the employment of James Humphrey, above, as the hospital's new personnel manager. Humphrey came here from Kennedy Hospital in West Palm Beach where he was the nursing service coordinator. A former newsmen, Humphrey has been on the news staffs of one television station and two radio stations. He is a native of Miami and expects to move into the area shortly.

Program Offered

In keeping with the State of Florida's Department of Transportation's pledge to open more avenues for the training and employment of minorities, a summer program is being offered to seniors in high schools, and other qualified youngsters. Those accepted for the program will be paid a salary of $202, every other week while attending classes at Florida A and M together with paid tuition, books and supplies. Round trip transportation will be supplied at no cost to the trainees entered in the program.

Classes will begin on June 23 and conclude on August 30, a ten week course of study. The subject matter covered in the courses, required by the DOT, will cover orientation (to explain the basic concept of the work and familiarize the student with the relationship of the studies to the overall duties with the DOT). Mathematics will be reviewed on a level with the education and comprehension of high school student. Engineering drawing will be covered, since the work will require both the preparation and the reading of such necessary tools of the trade. Students will be given training in the use and interpretation of surveyor's tools, along with the reason for this technical skill, in relation to the transportation departmental functions. The course will cover the types of materials used in road construction (such as asphalt). Contract administration will be investigated and the needs, uses and advantages of this knowledge will be explored as a part of the curriculum. After graduation, according to Freddie Owens, Economic Equal Opportunity Coordinator for the 4th District of the DOT, employment may be offered to graduates for positions in Dade, Broward and Palm Beach Counties. The wages will be increased to $232, bi-weekly for those graduates, who will also enjoy many fringe benefits. This includes paid holidays, sick leave, group health and life insurance plans, further education and promotion opportunities. Before entering into the program, the applicant will be required to sign a contract with the State DOT. The agreement will state that the applicant will consent to being employed by the State for at least one year after graduation from the ten week course. The only expense to the students attending Florida A and M will be a cost of $18. per week for their stay on campus and meal books at a charge of $26. per week. Any student not completing the courses will be required to refund monies to the DOT. Those completing the courses are able to enjoy a lifetime of further advancement changes along with the security, social status and involvement in a public service.

SOME LAUGHED WHEN THE 55 MPH LIMIT was suggested, but not those who remember the 35 mph limit during WWII. And 55 did become the top speed limit, and now some say the days of 70 mph cruising on our super highways may be gone forever. The 55 speed saved gas true. But now the statistics are in and Washington reports that during December, November, January, and February there were 2,600 lives SAVED. That means 2,600 did not die on the streets and highways this year as the same months the previous year. Wise heads say this is due to three factors: far fewer miles driven, much more drinking at home (alcohol still accounts for over 60 per cent of highway deaths) and a poor third place the 55 mph speed limit. But the politicians will jump on the 55 mph speed limit, and could nail it down forever as the top limit, pleading their concern for the lives of constituents. Let's not have the 55 mph limit for the wrong reason. The 55 limit did help, but it isn't the whole picture. Nor can states plan their own speed limit, because if it's over the federal standard, highway funds or other Uncle Sugar donations to states can be withheld. So no state is going to ask for a cut in funding. Given you something to think about, doesn't it?

Inquiring Gardener

Q. I am interested in buying some rose bushes, what should I know about selecting them?

A. Roses are available in various grades or qualities, depending upon the type of root system they have. Grafted roses are composed of two different roses, one forms the root system (rootstock) and the other the top (scion). The three standard rootstocks are fortuniana, which given the best results in this area, Dr. Huey, which is second best, the Multiflora is the least satisfactory rootstock because it is the shortest-lived under Florida conditions. Plants on their own roots, (tops and roots from the same cutting) are satisfactory for the older shrub varieties. Normally, plants grafted on any of the standard rootstocks live longer and produce more flowers than when grown on their own roots.

Dormant or bare-root plants are available from October to March, and will bloom in about 10 weeks after planting. Most failures of healthy dormant plants result from insufficient water. Plants should be watered daily until growth starts and weekly after growth starts.

COSMETOLOGIST BERNESTINE NELSON POSES WITH TROPHIES WON during recent state-wide competition of Orange Blossom Association convention

Cosmetologists Form Club

A new cosmetologist club has been formed by a group of Belle Glade beauticians and one of its members has already picked off the first place prize in hair styling at a state-wide meet.

Officers of the Realistic Cosmetologist Club, Unit #25 were installed April 28 by Mrs. Tommie C. Gilbert, a state organizer for the Orange Blossom Cosmetologist Association, Inc., a state association of cosmetologist clubs.

Member Bestine Nelson won her first place prize at the annual Orange Blossom convention and was named Hair Stylist of the Year by the organization.

"We attended the state convention in full number," Recording Secretary Barbara Stanley said. "We accomplished a great deal to better our profession and to better accommodate our community and patrons."

"On June 3, our club attended a work shop for HDC Manufacturers of Chicago, Ill., which was held in Miami. This work shop," she said, "was held at William J.O'Brien Beauty Supply Co. and we were introduced to an entire line of new products in the beauty industry."

Miss Stanley said the group was taught the proper way in which the new products can help its members as cosmetologists serve their patrons. The nine members of the club are Mrs. Elnora Benjamin, advisor; Mrs. Sarah Lowe, president; Mrs. Fleeter Smith, vice president; Miss Barbara Stanley, recording secretary; Mrs. Geneva Singletary, financial secretary; Mrs. Leatha Hillery, treasurer and members Bestine Nelson, Mrs. Willie J. Chamber Installs Members

Moses, Mrs. Kitty Collins of Collins Barbeque, John L. Forgette of Fager Army-Navy Discount Store and Mrs. Jose Antuna. Berryhill said the group wound up the membership drive begun earlier this year, leaving the chamber with 248 active, paid-up members, although there are still some members who haven't paid their current dues.

Women's Project Launched

The Palm Beach County Commission on the Status of Women is launching a project to gather information about women in Palm Beach County. The purpose—to encourage more qualified women to seek appointments as members of the widely varied advisory commissions, appointed by county commissioners and municipal governments.

Commissions such as the Citizens Task Force, Consumer Affairs Advisory Board, Animal Regulation Advisory Boards, Area Planning, Emergency Medical Service Council,

Human Rights Commission, Insurance Advisory Committee, Land Use Commission and many others, have at most a token single woman appointee, or in most cases no women presently serving.

Women, who make up more than half of the county population, have untapped experience, education and interests which should be utilized. For too long men have assumed almost total responsibility for citizen participation on these advisory boards and commissions.

The Commission on the Status of Women, chaired by Thelma Moore, was appointed

A questionnaire, inquiring into the interests and abilities of women will be distributed widely in the county. Organizations and individuals are needed to distribute and fill out the forms so that information can be made available to government agencies seeking women for leadership roles.

For further information, write to the Commission on the Status of Women, P.O. Box 1989, West Palm Beach, Fla., or telephone Claudette Pelletier, Assistant County Attorney. Telephone: 655-5200. Extension:

And Away We Go!!!

...holler the girls as they take their marks for the Field Day fun at Belle Glade Elementary School last week. Members of each class participated in the activities and the winners raced against the teachers. Course, with as much energy as these kids were showing, the teachers probably had no end of trouble, even if they did have longer legs. What a way to end the school year!

Insurance Corner

Be Seen and Live

Of the many variables which combine to cause an accident on the highway, one is visibility of the "target". The less visible your car is the higher its chances of being struck.

According to recent tests at the University of California, the colors blue and yellow were judged the safest if you want your car to be seen on the highway. Blue shows up best during daylight and fog, yellow is best at night. The worst color from the visibility standpoint is gray. It seems to blend into the background and appears to be much farther away than it is.

Luminous tape is also a major visibility factor at night. Its reflective ability triples the distance that your car can be seen. And here's the visibility tip for the day. Why not paint the inside of your car's trunk with luminous paint? In case of a breakdown at night, your raised trunk lid will glow as a warning to the motorists.

Cows One, Caddies One

Hi diddle diddle, the cat and the fiddle and the cow jumped over the moon but when this cow butted heads with a Cadillac one night last week, it was hard to say which party came out on top. The Caddy killed the cow but you should have seen the other guy. It took a wrecker to tow away the Caddy and police and Sheriff's deputies were investigating the case for more than an hour on SR715.

Be prepared

A SUGGESTION FROM THE BOY SCOUTS OF AMERICA
BE PREPARED FOR LIFE

Did you know that when we asked boys across the country what they thought was most fun about Scouting they said hiking and camping outdoors? But when we asked them what they thought was most important about Scouting they said "...to help you be prepared for life." To help you be prepared for life. Did you know that Scouting has a drug prevention program all its own? That Scouting has one of the most effective anti-pollution programs going? That new Scouting merit badges include Computers, Environmental Science, Atomic Energy, Space Exploration and Citizenship in the World? That more Scout troops are being formed in the nation's inner cities than boys groups of any other kind? Did you know that for every boy in Scouting there's another boy who'd like to be, but can't? And that the reason most of them can't is because no adult in the neighborhood thinks Scouting's worth the time? If you don't think Scouting's worth your time, you don't know enough about Scouting. COOKING CORNER

How to Boil Water

Enough Water
1 Pot
(Note: a pot is somewhat similar to a cup in shape, but larger and usually made of some sort of metal. It frequently has a long handle as well.)
Put water into pot. (Pot must be large enough to hold all the water you wish to boil.)
Light flame under pot. Cook until bubbles appear. Keep your eyes closed during the latter part of this process, as a watched pot never boils.
When using a kettle, follow same directions. When the water boils, the kettle will whistle. It will be hot, so do not clap its face.
